Why attend?

2023 is the Best of times & the Worst of times for Pro-Life people: Nationally, the Dobbs decision was a great pro-life victory ending the Roe era of Federally mandated abortion on demand. It has saved thousands of lives already. However, Michigan has become the State with the most extreme pro-abortion laws in the nation thanks to Proposal 3. We are now an abortion destination State. HOW DO WE PROTECT THE UNBORN AND CHANGE HEARTS & MINDS IN A MAJORITY PRO-ABORTION STATE? HOW DO WE UNITE AS PRO-LIFE MOVEMENT?

Kansas City Chiefs' kicker Harrison Butker wears pro-life tie, precious feet pin to White House

By Nancy Flanders

The 2023 Super Bowl champions, the Kansas City Chiefs, were at the White House on Tuesday by invitation from President Joe Biden. Among them was Chiefs' kicker Harrison Butker, who sported pro-life attire — including a one-of-a-kind original tie made specifically for him in collaboration with Live Action — to the event with the pro-abortion president.

Butker, who kicked a 27-yard field goal to put the Chiefs ahead of the Philadelphia Eagles 38-35 in the last moments of the game in February, is known as a strongly pro-life, devout Catholic. Live Action created the tie in collaboration with Butker. It is embroidered with the words “Protect the Most Vulnerable” in Latin — “Vulnerari Praesidio.” Butker paired the tie with a gold pin created with a reference photo to be the exact size of a 10-week-old preborn baby's feet.

Biden is a self-professed pro-abortion Catholic and the Biden Administration has become the most pro-abortion administration in history. Butker took the White House visit as an opportunity to stand for the protection of preborn children from abortion.

“I want to give the most vulnerable, the unborn, a voice at a place where every effort has been made to allow and normalize the tragic termination of their lives,” said Butker in a press release on Tuesday, which also noted that Butker “used the visit to the White House as an opportunity to highlight the forgotten of our society by partnering with LIVE ACTION in creating a custom tie that he wore with his suit. With the words, ‘protect the most vulnerable’ written in Latin, and a baby feet lapel pin, Butker made a powerful message to the world.”

He added, “As a father who has experienced three miscarriages, my wife and I understand the hardships that come with losing a child. Every life is precious and should be valued whether outside or inside the womb.”

Last year, as Kansas prepared to vote on a pro-life amendment that ultimately failed — the “Value Them Both Amendment” — Butker appeared in a Catholic Vote commercial in support of the amendment. The amendment would have stated that the Kansas constitution does not secure a “right to abortion” or require government (taxpayer) funding of abortion. Instead, opponents deceptively (and successfully) painted the amendment as a ban on abortion.

Butker told the Catholic News Agency, “I think God has definitely given me a platform. He’s given me a voice for a lot of people that aren’t able to voice their opinions. I put so much into being the best kicker I can possibly be and for whatever reason, God has allowed me to continue to be successful as a kicker. I’m so thankful for that. My success in football has given me a pedestal and I feel a responsibility to raise awareness to different issues that I think God wants me to bring to the forefront.”

Moms and Dads

A big thank you to all who helped with Candy and Carnations. Carnations and Candy are such little things. We can never find an adequate gift, or sufficient words to thank our parents for the love, support and guidance they give us, but when we see the smiles when a mom is presented with a carnation, or a dad can't wait to open, and share, his candy, we know they understand what we are really offering - our love.

July 4th

This month, when we celebrate our country's independence, it is easy to get caught up in the fireworks and barbecues. But the day commemorates so much more than that. Those who came to what would become the USA fled their homeland to find a place where they could practice their faith belief in freedom. They established a new government with certain absolute freedoms, among them, at the top of the list, was freedom of religion and freedom of expression. This country struggled, worked hard, sometimes made mistakes, but those two freedoms remained at the top of the list. For 200 plus years these have been a hallmark of our country, but it is becoming a little scary out there. People of faith are being harassed, places of worship vandalized, disrespectful behaviors from people who should know better. Many of us are in places where it is becoming difficult to express our own beliefs in our own words—colleges, elementary schools, mainstream media outlets are imposing a chilling effect on free speech. This is clearly true of pro-life people. It is becoming easier to not comment or to walk away when someone extolls the “benefit” of abortion or euthanasia. Earlier in this message was the notion that our early settlers struggled to establish freedoms. Well, so are we. Be strong prolife people! Teach your children well. Don't run from discussions; engage others, not with hostility or anger but with facts and resources. July 4th is indeed mores than fireworks and barbecues - if that is all we can think of to celebrate our country, then we are facing a very uncertain future.

Wee Care

Meet Chase!

Chase couldn't wait to be born, so at 3lbs. 10oz., he made his appearance! Although every baby is a miracle, this little guy came into the world breathing on his own and not requiring oxygen. He is using a feeding tube to get stronger. His grandma says he is feisty and is her little miracle.

Please keep this handsome little guy in your prayers! And, oh yes, because of you, we were able to give him all the blankets, clothing, diapers, bedding and items he will need on the beautiful day when he leaves the hospital (We also gave him the cutest, tiniest preemie clothes!).

God bless you and God bless Chase and his mom and excited grandma!

Love, Karen

YOUTH REPORT

Dear Friends of Life – students of all ages, parents, teachers, campus ministers, assistant principals, principals, school presidents, youth ministers, young adult leaders, DRE's, church administrators, deacons, pastors, and priests:

Our big news to share: We have a new Youth Director for our Wayne County Chapter! Hurray! Please join me in welcoming Kathryn Priddy! If you want to send her an email to welcome her directly, you can do so at wcdr@rtl-lifespan.org:

Hi! My name is Kathryn Priddy and I am the new Youth Director for Wayne County. I grew up in South Carolina and got my degree in Religious Studies from Wintrop University. Ultimately though, I moved from there about two years ago and got a job as a youth minister at St. Michael's Catholic Church. Some people ask me about how I could trade the weather there for Michigan winters, but in all honesty I prefer the weather here. Living in South Carolina was like living in a soup; I would rather freeze! In my free time I enjoy drawing either with pencils or my art tablet. I'd say animals are my favorite subject matter simply because of all the different forms they have and each one is a new challenge.

It's exciting to be working here at LIFESPAN because, while many in my home state are appalled by Michigan's abortion laws and are quite frankly perturbed at how such laws could pass, I get to see and work with the many good people who think likewise and are willing to speak out and fight against these laws.

Kathryn and I will be working on updated fliers for the Movement In Motion Youth Bus Trip (MIM YBT) to DC, Pro-Life T-Shirt Day, and Pro-Life Chalk Day over the summer and will be finalizing plans for the MIM YBT! Look for these updates in the next two newsletters!

Unplanned, but never Unwanted

By Ryan Bomberger

The best birthday present I ever received was the gift of being able to adopt my oldest daughter.

I'll never forget sitting in the Historical Society parking lot, being hounded by busybodies who demanded to know why I was parked there. I explained that my wife was in the courthouse across the street, and I just needed a few more minutes to find out about the child support proceeding. My wife, Bethany, and I were praying and hoping for a God-sized miracle. Her biological daughter had only known me as her dad since she was a one-year-old. Against our highly-paid attorneys' opinion, we sought to ask the biological father if he'd be willing to relinquish his rights before the hearing.

We were told: "It's impossible...it's the wrong venue...the judge will never allow it...you'll have to share custody the rest of your lives...there's no way this will happen."

The God of the impossible made it happen.

While I was sitting in the empty parking lot (clearly needed for all the people desperately trying to get some history), my wife was in the middle of a miracle unfolding. She called me, weeping, telling me that the biological "father" shockingly agreed to end his parental rights. The judge approved it, and my baby girl officially became a Bomberger! The four-year battle to free my daughter from confusion and chaos finally ended.

That precious baby girl wasn't exactly planned. Bethany, in her 20s, was a public school teacher in Philly. Her life had spiraled downward as she painfully distanced herself from her faith. She got involved with a guy who was emotionally abusive. She finally walked away from the toxic relationship only to discover she was pregnant.

He didn't want the responsibility. When he found out the baby was a girl, he pushed Bethany to have an abortion. He even offered to pay for the violence.

Bethany never considered abortion. She rejected it. The pressure on her, though, was rather intense. Fellow teachers questioned how she would remain in her profession if she chose to be a mother. So much of the rhetoric centered on the lie that an "unplanned" pregnancy is the end of your life.

There's always a plan in the unplanned. When Bethany went, alone, to an ultrasound appointment, she felt God's love in the coldness of the exam room. Seeing the flickering rice-sized heart beating helped shake the suffocating fear she had felt for so many weeks. When she went home that evening, she opened up a journal to write down all of her emotions and newfound hope. In the margin of one of the pages were the pre-printed words: "I sought the Lord, and he relieved me of all my fears. Those who look to Him are radiant. Their faces will never be covered with shame (Psalm 34:4-5)."

That verse led her to name her unborn daughter, Radiance. She determined in her heart that, even if she had to be a single mom for the rest of her life, that baby girl would never know any shame about how she came to be. She would never know anything other than being someone God meant to be.

Though Radiance's "father" didn't want her, she was not unwanted. I'm the only dad she's ever known. Bethany and I got married when Rai Rai was only one. I married the love of my life and became an instant dad at the same time.

Back at the Historical Society parking lot, still being hounded by the staff who were ushering me to the exit, I'm reeling from the course of events that would change our family's life forever. As an adoptee, who was conceived in rape but adopted in love, I've lived a life that defies the myth of the "unwanted" child. And the day before my birthday, a God-sized miracle blessed me with the greatest birthday gift I could ever ask for.

Rai Rai would never know life without a loving father.

A few days ago, I watched my daughter speak with beautiful confidence at her graduation ceremony. Years of memories flooded my mind as tears raced down my face. She made people laugh and shout "Amen!", effortlessly letting her radiant personality shine. Big Sister. Athlete. Actress. Choir member. Dancer. Teaching assistant. Artist. On-camera host. Leader. Child of God.

She exudes the strength and beauty of her mom. She knows who she is and whose she is. She thinks deeply and acts counter-culturally. Radiance is the tangible example of the beauty of possibility. When people insist "unplanned pregnancies" end in misery, I see nothing but victory.

Her mama shredded the lies of pro-abortion (fake) feminism as she balanced being a full-time teacher and a mother. Bethany became the homeschooling mama to four children (two of whom were adopted). She is the co-founder and Executive Director of The Radiance Foundation, a nationally acclaimed non-profit organization. She has modeled what it means to be a woman of God who will lay down her life for those she loves.

And now, the Class of 2023 has someone whose light shines brightly. Our college-bound Radiance aspires to be an elementary school teacher like her mama. She could've been a tragic statistic but instead is a triumphant statement: Life has purpose!

To those who face the fear of an unexpected pregnancy, you're not alone. You deserve much better than a culture of exploitation and defeatism. You are stronger than your circumstances.

An unplanned pregnancy isn't an obstacle. It's an opportunity for you to become more than you ever thought you could be.

From the President's Desk

Dear Friends,

My heart is heavy today as I ponder the total disrespect for our children inside and outside of the womb. I began this pro-life fight for the child in the womb, to protect their God given right to LIFE, and to keep them protected from the knife of the abortionist while maturing and growing in utero. Once we allowed killing (in what is supposed to be the safest place ever for us humans, the womb), we opened the door to a society that allows killing and destroying these same children outside the womb.

Throughout history, children have been used and abused by unsavory, money-hungry people. But I believe in this time, and in this generation, it has reached an all-time high. Child abuse through abortion, the gender ideology movement and human trafficking of children is a scandal on this country and the world. I recently read a review on Jim Caviezel's new film "Sound of Freedom." The source defined it as the most powerful movie he has ever seen. He spoke of Jim Caviezel's performance as superior and goes beyond his performance from "The Passion of the Christ". That is hard for me to believe, but I have not seen the film. It is about the worldwide trafficking of children and what they go through because of man's greed for money and sex. It got me thinking about what we have become as a civilization since Roe v Wade, and if indeed we will ever be able to return to a society that respects human life, inside and outside the womb.

We are all struggling with our own lives and sometimes it is easier to ignore the dark side of life and push it deep into our psychic - just don't think about it and it will go away. That kind of thinking has gotten us to where we are today on the abortion issue. So many people in our society relate to the women, so their feelings go toward helping her. They cannot relate to the child growing in the womb, so they just don't act.

Not being able to relate to the child in the womb has been a great problem in trying to involve society to speak out! Feelings have overcome Truth.

Do or say something about the rights of the child in the womb! It may hurt someone's feelings, but the truth is more important - it is a growing human person who has a right to life!

How do we get people involved? How do we get people to act and say enough is enough? The abuse of our children outside the womb is the same as the abortion abuse given to those inside the womb. The difference between the child inside the womb and outside the womb, is the child outside the womb can be seen, heard, and touched: they are relatable. It is up to us to always speak about the child in the womb with the same feelings and truth we do when they are in our arms. We must always turn the discussion to the living person you cannot see, touch, or hear. We must get people to feel and relate to the preborn child.

Again, I don't have a miracle wand, but what I do know is we must continue our efforts to make more people aware of these abuses. People should be challenged not to be complacent and ignore the issue. Jim Caviezel's new film will hopefully put a light on the tragedy of human trafficking, especially children. It will be up to us to speak to our family and friends. We must get them to understand the evils of abortion and the attacks on all of our children from these evil forces. We need to get more people involved. We need to reach out to our youth with a strong educational message. We need to stop supporting those corporations and businesses who support abortion. We need to put into public office people who will be a strong voice for the "Right to Life" issues. Elections matter! There is a lot of work to be done but, work we must. Time, money, and sweat is what is needed.

Who will you speak to this summer about the attacks on our children both inside and outside of the womb? If you don't, who will? May God give us the courage to continue this fight, no matter the consequences. Thank you for your continuous support!
